Movies that Pack a Punch

20-29 June 2019

www.londonindianfilmfestival.co.uk
Celebrating our 10th Birthday, the UK and Europe’s largest South Asian film festival is literally stuffed to the rafters with a rich assortment of entertaining and thought provoking independent films.

This year’s highlights include a red carpet opening night at Picturehouse Central with the exciting World Premiere of cop whodunit Article 15, starring Bollywood star Ayushmann Khurrana directed by Anubhav Sinha. Our closing night marks the return of Ritesh Batra, the director of The Lunchbox with the premiere of Photograph starring the legendary Nawazuddin Siddiqui.

Our themed strands in this brochure start with the Young Rebel strand, which literally knocks out all the stereotypes with a fistful of movies exploring younger lives. See director Rima Das’ award-winning teenage hit Bulbul Can Sing, Coming-of-age comedy The Lift Boy, or Roobha and Kattumaram premieres, presenting young lives taking a stand.

The Bengal Tigers strand highlights the region’s unique contribution to world cinema. One can catch Bengal’s hottest new talented filmmakers legendary director Buddhadeb Dasgupta’s new film The Flight, alongside rarely seen archival classics.

Dive deep into our Extra-Ordinary Lives strand with amazing documentaries and dramas from across South Asia. We present rollicking Hindi hit The Man Who Feels No Pain. Don’t miss tense Kannada whodunnit Arishadvarga, or the unforgettably feel-good My Home India.

Our Film, Power & Politics strand offers a critical insight into the fast moving political changes of South Asia. The astonishing documentary Reason by Anand Patwardhan, Bangla suspense Saturday Afternoon and Gandhian black comedy #Gadhvi are a few films to look out for.

We are expecting a host of special guests, including India’s most famous indie director Anurag Kashyap of Sacred Games fame, and UK Asian legend Gurinder Chadha. Make sure you buy your tickets in advance for these!

We are delighted to welcome back our regular partners including Title Sponsor the Bagri Foundation for the fifth year in a row. Thanks to the BFI Audience Fund and to our many friends and supporters. More guests will be confirmed soon so please do check out the festival website for updates www.LondonIndianFilmFestival.co.uk or hit Twitter and Instagram @loveliff #loveLIFF and Facebook: London Indian Film Festival.

Buy tickets via booking links on our website, or directly at partner cinemas. We look forward to seeing you there!

OPENING NIGHT GALA

ARTICLE 15

20 June | 18:15 | PICTUREHOUSE CENTRAL
27 June | 19:00 | CINEWORLD WEMBLEY

We are delighted to open our 10th birthday celebrations with the World Premiere of Anubhav Sinha’s hard-hitting Article 15. India’s hottest male star Ayushmann Khurrana (Andhadhun, Badhai Ho) plays a police officer from a privileged urban background, whose first posting is to rural north India, where three teenage girls have gone missing. His honesty does not sit well with the existing, deeply entrenched corrupt system where, in 2019, a 1000-year-old practice where human beings are divided on the basis of caste continues. Beginning as a riveting police procedural that is a True Detective-like deep-dive into the Indian bayou, Article 15 soon elevates to a gutsy exposé of a deeply flawed structure. The film’s title is a reference to an article of the Indian constitution that prohibits discrimination on the basis of caste, religion, race or sex. Special guests expected.

Cannes hit The Lunchbox took the world by storm with box office success in all territories. Its director Ritesh Batra returns to the big screen with this nuanced romance between unlikely lovers. Acting legend Nawazuddin Siddiqui plays Rafi, a humble street photographer outside the Gateway of India, Mumbai. He photographs an attractive young wealthy woman Miloni, who disappears without paying. Keeping her photo, he tries to fob off his marriage-peddling granny by sending her the photo to show his success, but impressed, she is soon heading to Mumbai to meet the marriage prospect. Rafi manages to track down Miloni and convince her to pretend to be his fiancée, and, partly intrigued by rough diamond Rafi’s request and partly because she’s looking for something extraordinary, she agrees.

Following the mega success of Ardaas, we revisit the story of three elderly men who live in Canada with their families, realising that each generation has a different conflicting opinion about life. The elderly men believe spending time with each other and communicating may help bridge their gap. But each time the family plans to spend time with each other they end up arguing. One day the elderly gentlemen come across Sehaj and Magic who are full of positivity and agree to help them understand their families but are given a week to accomplish this. Will Sehaj and Magic manage to find a common thread for the three differing generations to live together in harmony? How will they use Ardaas (prayer) to convey their message about life?

Based on a true story in the mountains of Ladakh, we meet Chuskit - a joyous and strong-minded young girl whose dreams of going to school are cut short after an accident leaves her unable to walk. While her friends start school she is confined to life indoors in the company of her strict grandfather, Dorje, who is adamant she must stay at home. As her battle with her grandfather intensifies and Chuskit’s hopes are getting crushed the family decides on a dramatic path of change.

The Lift Boy is a heart-warming entertainer that will leave you smiling from ear to ear. When his father falls ill, 24 year-old lay-about Raju is forced to take up his dad’s job as a liftboy at a posh apartment complex in Mumbai. As an aspiring engineer, despite having failed his exams four times, Raju detests having to do what he considers menial work, believing it is beneath him. However over time he learns that the job is more than just being confined to the lift and he gets to know the residents of the apartment building, as an inspiring connection begins to blossom with Maureen D’Souza, the owner of the complex.

Assamese director Rima Das returns to LIFF with this groundbreaking coming-of-age tale that has swept up prestigious awards at Berlin, Dublin, Singapore and Mumbai film festivals. Three teenage best friends in rural Assam, northeast India, are forging their distinct personalities, but as the girls secretly meet boys, they soon come face to face with outmoded cultural traditions that challenge their family and place in the community, but most importantly their bonds as loyal friends. Rima Das made a global splash with Village Rockstars and Bulbul Can Sing continues to prove her humane, world-class talent.

KATTUMARAM
(CATAMARAN)
21 June | 20:30 | BFI SOUTHBANK
29 June | 16:00 | CINEWORLD LEICESTER SQUARE

Part of an emerging queer cinema from South India Kattumaram tells of patriarch Singaram and his orphaned niece Anandhi, fisher-folk survivors of the Tsunami. Beautiful Anandhi teaches in the local school and has many fishermen interested in her, but Anandhi instead secretly falls for a new female supply teacher. As Singaram finds out and tries to come to terms with this revelation, gossip about the young women’s relationship quickly spreads. Singaram is left facing the choice of either defending his beloved niece and her partner, or giving sway to the demands of an angry community.

Canadian Tamil Roobha is a stunning young trans-woman struggling to find her place after being ostracised by her family. One night while dancing in a redneck bar she has a chance encounter with Tamil bar owner and ‘straight’ married man, Anthony, (played by Jesuthasan Antonythasan of Dheepan fame). This leads to an intense love affair, but their blissful relationship is put to the test as Roobha is forced to deal with transgender stigma present in their community and Anthony’s familial affiliation and ailing health. Lenin M. Sivam’s latest film is beautifully realised and a unique romantic tale exploring the complexities of gender identities, romance and immigrant loneliness.

Arjun Dutta’s debut feature film is a touching story about the relationship between a mother and her son. Abyakto narrates the journey of Indra from childhood, through adolescence to adulthood through snippets from his past, as he is forced to revisit them when he returns to his hometown Kolkata to take care of property matters a couple of years after his father’s death. The journey into Indra’s past reveal a strained and complex relationship with his mother that has gone on to shape him as a person in the present. Abyakto is a tender and poignant tale about love, regret and the search for an identity.

Legendary Bengali filmmaker Buddhadeb Dasgupta, who has a magic realist style akin to Guillermo del Toro, attends the festival to present one of his finest films. An idealistic villager discovers a wrecked WW2 Japanese warplane deep in a ghostly forest. Seeing passenger planes overhead, his dream has always been to fly. He sets about secretly repairing the plane, but as he starts enquiring about an engine, the military find out and he is soon considered a national threat. Dasgupta’s films are often subtly laced with a pressing politic of the ordinary man pitted against the all-powerful state.

Surreal and unnerving, debutants Dutta and Sen deliver a fresh hybrid style to the sci-fi genre. In the first tale of this delightful diptych strange nocturnal incidents begin to occur to a government officer from Kolkata visiting the Shonajhuri forest area - eerie lights, anonymous voices, sinister wailing and a random encounter with a polymorph, all draw him deep into the treacherous web of the golden groves. In the second, based on a story by Bibutibhushan Bandyopadhyay (Pather Panchali), a poor cook gets the caretaker’s job at an abandoned house in the same forest and must deal with “the others”. Equal parts homage to Japanese New Wave horror like Onibaba, and the cinema of Satyajit Ray and Mrinal Sen, the film is breathtakingly original.

Bengal has been a beating heart of Indian cinema since the silent era and continues to offer to the home and the world innovative, culturally rich and unique films, it has even inspired non-Indian filmmakers. We mark the passing of legendary director Mrinal Sen with the classic Kandhar, Satyajit Ray’s The Music Room and a conversation around Jean Renoir’s The River, as well as celebrating the best current indie filmmaking including a Q&A with master filmmaker Buddhadeb Dasgupta and emerging filmmakers.

Satyajit Ray brilliantly evokes the crumbling opulence of the world of a fallen aristocrat, Roy (the beloved stage and screen actor Chhabi Biswas) desperately clinging to a fading way of life in his zamindar’s palace. His greatest joy, and his obsession, is the music room in which he has hosted lavish concerts over the years—now a shadow of its former vivid self. The music itself, and its performance, to which Roy is so passionately if intensely devoted, becomes a key character in the film. The Music Room was a showcase for some of India’s most popular musicians, and was voted one of the greatest films of all time by Sight and Sound.

The film that arguably inspired new Bengali independent cinema - including Satyajit Ray - Renoir’s first colour feature follows a close-knit upper class British family living on the banks of the Ganges in the waning days of colonial India. Harriet and her four adolescent sisters are brought up in a philosophy that embraces both Christianity and Hinduism. Their placid lives are disrupted with the arrival of a soldier who is recovering from the horrors of war, and offers the smitten girls an insight into a wider world they have never been exposed to before. Featuring stunning Technicolor cinematography by Claude Renoir that captures the majestic beauty of Bengal and her rituals, The River is a treat for the eyes and the mind. Presented in divine 35mm.

In one of the most rapidly changing political regions of the world, South Asian filmmakers are often at the frontline - recording, reflecting on and at times questioning the powerful brokers and political decision-makers. We offer here four films that show different aspects of the South Asian political landscape now. At the Barbican, and other venues.

GADHVI

A retired, nondescript widower Ram Nath Gadhvi inadvertently takes on the establishment and suddenly becomes a social media sensation. He begins to take on Gandhi's pacifist principles, but is no ordinary Gandhian, believing he is the reincarnation of the Mahatma itself. In the process Gadhvi attracts more and more followers, but also enemies seeking to bring him down, including hired-gun, Omkar, who has been tasked with suppressing the swelling anger against the establishment by shattering Gadhvi's delusion and crushing his core beliefs. Gaurav Bakshi's debut feature is a sharp social and political satire.

REASON

Winner of two jury awards at Moscow International Film Festival Bangladeshi auteur Mostofa Sarwar Farooki (No Bed Of Roses) returns with this tense thriller shot in a single take where terrorists take over an eatery in Dhaka, resulting in a siege scenario and multiple deaths. Loosely based on real events, the riveting film takes a close look at the roots of modern day terrorism through political, social and gender implications. Adding gravitas to this gut-puncher are a plethora of international stars, including India's Parambrata Chatterjee (Shah Jahan Regency), Bangladesh's Nusrat Imrose Tisha (Sincerely Yours, Dhaka) and Palestine's Eyad Hourani (Omar).

SATURDAY AFTERNOON

VIVEK

India's greatest documentarian, Anand Patwardhan, returns with a powerful chronicle of contemporary India. He depicts a country that after decades of relatively pro-secular democracy, is now increasingly divided by religion, caste and power. Patwardhan follows activists, rationalists and dissenters, Narendra Dabholkar and Govind Pansare, he broadens his gaze to look at critical questions of communism, caste and freedom of speech. This is a riveting and sobering film that will inform and frustrate in equal measure. Reason is a must watch, and is perhaps the most important documentary to emerge from India in recent years.

Popular at the Busan and Rotterdam Film Festivals, Praveen Morchhale’s drama tells of Aasia who works as a nurse in a hospital to maintain herself, her 11-year-old daughter and her sick mother-in-law. She spends her days working, looking after her family and trying to obtain a death certificate for her husband who had been taken away by the police and presumed dead. With her life in limbo, unable to either re-marry, or settle her considerable financial debt without a death certificate, a conniving government official looks to take advantage, forcing Aasia to make difficult decisions to overcome her absurd plight. Widow of Silence is a gripping and soulful film with breathtaking visuals of the Kashmir landscape.

EXTRAORDINARY LIVES

LIFF showcases independent films, which celebrate depictions of ordinary lives through fiction and documentaries.

This year we screen a selection of films that show glimpses of real life in the subcontinent and Asian diaspora, which are sometimes hard, sometimes feel good, even comic, but always compelling.

After its debut at Cannes this film has been winning hearts and awards the world over. A wealthy young Indian man in Mumbai with baggage from the past falls in love with his servant, a widow who dreams of becoming a tailor. As the two take baby steps towards each other, trust is of the essence. Sir explores the age-old divide between the classes in India and wonders if it can ever be bridged. Brilliant performances from Tillotama Shome (Manto) and Vivek Gomber (Court) offer a compelling on screen chemistry in this charming romance.

An aspiring young actor, Anish, who is doubling as an amateur gigolo, gets caught up in a sticky situation. Anish’s dire financial situation is pushing him to seek an escape, which he finds with an anonymous wealthy female client. Called to her place one day for a rendezvous, he turns up only to be met with a surprise gift, ‘a murder’. He finds himself framed for a crime he didn’t commit with a witness who is convinced he is the culprit. Arishadvarga is a smart and tense neo-noir thriller that will have you guessing who did it till the very end.

A compelling documentary set in Karachi. Three paramedics discuss their recurring nightmares sparked by their experiences at work: disturbing stories that haunt the first responders responsible for tending to violent events. As well their recollections, televised re-enactments with victims, criminals and medical personnel showcase scenarios ranging from the banal to the horrifying. Alternating between reminiscence and fiction, reality and imagination Shehrezad Maher creates a powerful and impactful reflection on trauma and the spectacle of violence in society.

THIS SHAKING KEEPS ME STEADY
This inspirational documentary will have you in tears and every Indian glowing with pride. The film essentially uncovers one little-known story of unimaginable humanity, generosity and kindness. Towards the end of WW2 the Polish ambasssadorial team in Bombay, led by determined heroine Kira Banasinska and supported by a local Maharaja, dispatched a convoy of food relief thousands of miles to Soviet Siberian labour camps where Polish women and children were starving. To the British Raj’s surprise they returned with 5,500 women and children who found refuge and welcome in India. Over 70 years later a number of now elderly Polish people return to a town South of Mumbai where they were able to find safety and discover the joys of childhood.

Legendary director Mrinal Sen passed in December 2018. We mark his legacy with a special screening of the restored film Khandhar. The film won India’s National film award for Best Direction, Best Actress and Best Editing and won awards worldwide. In this magnificent character ensemble a once wealthy landowner Dipu (Pankaj Kapur) invites his friends Subhash (Naseeruddin Shah) and Anil (Annu Kapoor) to his broken-down ancestral home in the country, where they meet the impoverished caretaker and his family including the intelligent dutiful daughter Jamini (Shabana Azmi), who was jilted by her ex-lover. Young Jamini and Subhash form an understated but intense attraction, where the silences say more than words.

Winner of the prestigious Midnight Madness audience award at the Toronto International Film Festival, Mard Ko Dard Nahin Hota is a breathtakingly original and imaginative film. Surya is born with the rare condition of congenital insensitivity to pain. Often confined to the four walls of his house to avoid physical injuries, under the tutelage of his eccentric grandfather Abaja, Surya finds an escape through 80s martial arts films on VHS. Inspired by what he sees Surya sets out to become a martial arts expert like his hero, the one-legged Karate master, Mani. Combining fast-paced edge of your seat action with delirious cinematic pop culture references, Mard Ko Dard Nahin Hota is an exhilarating crowd pleaser.

ANURAG KASHYAP SCREEN TALK
28 June | 20:45 | BFI SOUTHBANK

The Martin Scorsese of India. A rare chance to hear the experiences of India's most famed cult director. Anurag Kashyap is a unique talent and is India's best-known filmmaker on the global festival circuit. His Netflix series Sacred Games was a global smash hit and is set for season 2. He flits across genres, ranging from edgy, provocative fare like Dev. D, Ugly, Raman Raghav 2.0 to the two-part Godfather-like rural gangland epic Gangs Of Wasseypur, the political punch of Gulaal and Black Friday, and the unusual love stories Manmarziyaan and Mukkabaaz. Known for his outspoken nature, Kashyap pulls no punches on stage, and his deep insights on cinema are valued around the world.

AN EVENING WITH RADHIKA APTE
23 June | 18:00 | CINEWORLD LEICESTER SQUARE

Radhika Apte is that rarity - an Indian actress who is equally successful across the independent, commercial and international sectors. She starred in box office successes like Padman, Andhadhun and Kabali, shone in indies Parched, Phobia and Bombairiya and made a global mark with Lion, The Wedding Guest and The Ashram. In addition, she won the Jury Award at the Tribeca Film Festival for her bravura performance in Madly. She also has a cult following on Netflix, headlining the originals Ghoul, Lust Stories and Sacred Games. Equally at home in both London and Mumbai, Apte is a vivacious new-age artist whose acumen on the entertainment industry is sought after.

CHAI WITH CHADHA
22 June | 19:00 | PICTUREHOUSE CENTRAL

Gurinder Chadha's richly diverse career started with high-impact shorts at the end of the 1980s followed by her 1993 hit Bhaji On The Beach, which became an instant classic. Her mainstream mega hit was of course the unforgettable Bend It Like Beckham, which like much of her scripts referenced a uniquely British Asian experience. Ahead of releases of her much anticipated new feature Blinded By The Light and new ITV drama Beecham House, we find out what drives and inspires this iconic talent.
