TV STAR MRUNAL THAKUR ON HER LEAP TO CINEMA AND WORKING WITH THE BEST

by ASJAD NAZIR

TALENTED actress Mrunal Thakur may have made a name for herself on television with impressive performances, but all eyes will now be on her when she hits the big screen in two major film projects.

One of the best-kept secrets in India is set to get global attention with a starring role in international film Love, Sonia as well as high-profile Bollywood release Super 30 opposite superstar Hrithik Roshan.

She will first be seen at this year's London Indian Film Festival, where Love, Sonia is the opening night movie. Mrunal, who heads a strong star cast that includes Freida Pinto, Demi Moore, Manoj Bajpayee, Rajkummar Rao and Richa Chadda, plays the title role of an Indian village girl who gets caught up in the web of the global sex trade.

Eastern Eye caught up with the star before she goes interstellar to talk about Love, Sonia, acting opposite Hrithik Roshan, and more.
